

The rocks could also be described as:

towering soaring giant colossal

Remember to make sure the new words make sense. The trouble is the thesaurus also said another word for tall is lanky. Lanky cannot be used to describe the rocks because lanky is only used to describe someone or some creature that is very thin and has long legs!

Now use some of your best adjectives to fill in the gaps to describe the setting. Read your sentence out loud. Does it work? Does it sound right?

The _____ rocks stood and stared down on the _____ canyon.

The _____ rocks steamed above the _____ valley.

Challenge 2: Now try using 2 adjectives with a comma to describe the nouns – make sure both adjectives work, and they are not just saying the same thing!

The _____ , _____ iceberg shimmered in the _____ lake.

I stared towards the _____ , _____
crater across rocks carpeted in _____ moss .

Challenge 3: Now try writing your own sentences to describe the setting using your best adjectives. Remember to read your sentence out loud first. Also use a capital letter, a full stop and, if you use 2 adjectives, remember the comma!
